Shared Services

Startups often cannot afford to hire full time staff for legal, accounting, marketing, web site development, content development, recruitment or other functions. M-Tech Innovations offers cost-effective shared access to highly skilled professionals on either a part-time or project basis.

Funding

Most startups require access to funds. These may come from multiple sources: friends and family, government grants or by venture capital groups. M-Tech Innovations facilitates applications for financial support and offers direct equity investments to qualified members.

Founders

M-Tech Innovations was created by Gideon Shoham and Idan Shoham, who had previously founded M-Tech Information Technology and managed it for 28 years. This company developed and delivered identity and access management software to over 1000 customers world-wide. The company was acquired by Hitachi, Ltd. and is now called Hitachi ID Systems.

Idan and Gideon share their experience with portfolio companies. This includes mentorship on a broad range of technology and business topics, including market research, sales and marketing, recruitment and retention, technology architecture and roadmap, implementation services and more.
